

Julius'
159 West 10th Street (at Waverly Place)
New York, NY 10014

Classic Old West Village Watering Hole with Amazing Burgers

Julius' has been a staple in the West Village for years. Its popularity remains intact with a terrific happy hour Monday – Saturday from 4:00 – 9:00 p.m. where you can get $3.00 domestic beers and well cocktails. The staff is terrific and boasts some of the best bartenders in the city.

Julius' also serves first-rate pub grub. They are famous for their juicy burgers, which rival the Corner Bistro for best in the city. The hot dogs are also delicious. There are usually daily specials as well. Faye Dunaway has even been known to stop in for a burger (insert your own wire hanger joke here).

History is all over the walls here with old faded framed photographs at every turn. A good juke box, video game machine, and back area with tables and chairs for dining complement the joint.

Oh, yeah, Julius' is technically a gay bar. I never asked if the burgers were gay or straight. When something is this good and this much fun, who cares?

Click below for more info:

<http://www.juliusbarnyc.com>

